RESEARCH PROJECTS

C2RTL: A High-Level Synthesis tool

- Developed a high-level synthesis tool named C2RTL that can generate synthesizable Verilog RTL for pipelined ASIC from C code.
- It was designed as a GCC plugin. It takes intermediate code produced by GCC as an input and generates a control and data-flow graph (CDFG) for that. It then performs scheduling and MUX tree generation before producing the Verilog code.
- Evaluated the generated Verilog code with iVerilog and Open-ROAD

CP-Trie: A Longest Prefix Match algorithm in Software and ASIC

- Developed several bitmap and Trie based longest prefix match algorithms such as CP-Trie, Poptrie and SAIL for IPv6 routing table lookup.
- Evaluated the algorithms with the routes from real core routers.

NC-TCP: A congestion control in Linux kernel

- Developed several router assisted congestion control such as XCP, RCP and NC-TCP in Linux kernel.
- Evaluated the protocols for a video streaming applications for various network topologies using Mininet and a GStreamer.
